

It has come to my attention that Sinclair Broadcasting is planning to air an anti-Kerry documentary days before the election.

Sinclair uses the public airwaves free of charge, and is obligated by law to serve the public interest. I personally feel this biased programming is being used in attempt to influence voters. This misuse of public media alarms me. More and more it seems these large companies are using their corporate muscle to promote their agendas and personal interest.

I think it is essential that the FCC step in and stop the airing of this documentary. Sinclair needs to be accountable for their actions, and honor ownership rules. The FCC must stay strong to protect our democracy. Thank you.
Sincerely, Kathleen Adair
